Introduce to the Program:

Unlike other social sciences, sociology is not limited to a specific field such as politics or economics but focuses on clarifying the link between all aspects of social life

The Master training program of Sociology will help students to create intellectual abilities to consider social issues by various approaches. Therefore, students of the Master degree training program of Sociology will be potential candidates for the professions requiring logical thinking, critical thinking, and analytical skills

The critical thinking skills will be extremely necessary to help students succeed in government agencies and in the areas of human resources, information and research, community services, communication, teaching, public services, marketing, public relations, and many other job positions.

Program structure:

The program is divided into 3 large courses which are progressed in 3 semesters, as below:

- 1st Semester: Students will study general and fundamental courses.
- 2nd Semester: Students will study specialist courses.
- 3rd Semester: Students prepare master's dissertation in 6 months.
